Mr. William Dollar, Good Citizen.

In a certain western town lives a gentleman whose name is William Dollar. They call him Dollar Bill when they get funny. But Mr. Dollar is a dignified, enterprising, good citizen.

Not every Dollar Bill is a good citizen. Many of them are prone to ignore the claims of their own community and run away to a big city to be spent. Many millions of Dollar Bills have left the smaller towns for the overgrown cities this present year of our Lord.

How many Dollar Bills have gone out of THIS TOWN—left home and gone to some big city, never to return? Every time a Dollar Bill leaves town it takes a two-cent stamp with it, for it goes to a Mail Order Store. That helps the postmaster a little, but it doesn't help the local merchant. It means just so much less trade for him.

Which means just so much less cash circulating in this community.
Which means just so much more social and business stagnation.
Which means the stunting of the town's growth just to that extent.

If you could figure up the Dollar Bills that leave town in this secret manner, like taking French leave—which you can't—you would know just how much the town is stunted by indulgence in this mail order stunt.

If these Dollar Bills were really good and enterprising citizens they would stay at home and circulate around, helping things along.

How many of YOUR Dollar Bills take the midnight express out of town on the Envelope Route?

DESIGNS FOR LINEN

EMBROIDERIES THAT ARE JUST NOW MOST POPULAR.

Empire Styles Ornamented in White, Pale Blues or Pink Find Favor in the Eyes of Housewives.

Dainty bedroom and table linen has a certain fascination for the majority of women, and it may be said that there are few other household accessories which afford so much opportunity for decoration.

Empire designs for the bedroom and table linen are having a special run of popularity this year, the embroidery

The Wreath May Be Enlarged for Bureau Scarf or Coverlet. It may be worked in white or the soft or pale blues, or in the more delicate pinks.

While the conservative woman will perhaps prefer the pure white in the decoration of her household linens, the embroidery done on the pale blues or the pastel shades is newer as well as more effective.

The design given is a dainty arrangement of the empire wreath, that can be quickly and easily worked even by the comparatively unskilled worker. It has no new stitches, and the design is simplicity itself.

The berries and tiny leaves are padded and then worked in the satin design. Or, if desired, the berries may be worked in the eyelet embroidery, though for bedroom and table linen it will be found more practical in the end to work them solid.

The design repeated at intervals over a large space, may be worked out as a crib cover, and may be applied in like manner to a bedspread, shams, pillow cases, sheets or bolsters. The edge should be buttonholed.

That is not Mrs. Fashion's policy at all this year. There are many varying styles, all of which are in vogue. The most popular ones, however, are designed along the tailored lines. The round yoke is shown on a number of the new models.

Green Tussore Parasols. Many green tussore parasols with washes of green tussore, fringed and knotted in front, are worn with white or natural tinted gowns.—From a Paris Letter to Vogue.

GOWNS FOR THE EVENING.

Clinging Materials Have the Call for This Season.

All black dinner gowns are at their best when made of materials soft and semi-transparent, soft silks, poplins, lamés and such fabrics, which naturally adapt themselves to the modes for evening wear. Green poplin, a soft, clinging, lustrous weave, popular in the season's range of materials, make this gown of princess persuasion. It is really made in two pieces, skirt and bodice, but so effectively joined that it looks to be a one-piece costume. The skirt is tucked over the hips between panels of black lace applique bands and has two deep tucks, below clusters of tiny pin tucks, between the hem and several inches about the knee. The décolleté bodice, cut round in back and pointed in front, is a simple baby, waist with simple trimmings of the applique, and short, very full puff sleeves, shirred and banded with the lace, and finished with a double frill of black chiffon. From the empire waistline in the back depends an empire sash of black chiffon. Long black lace gloves come well up under the short puff, so that none of the arm is visible between the sleeve and the top of the glove. An attractive accessory is the hand of black velvet ribbon about the throat finished with a bow at the back of the neck.

SLEEVES TO BE SMALLER.

Cold Weather Wraps Will Necessitate the Change.

The jumper in its latest form is somewhat on surplised lines and is frequently provided with one length or another of those mandarin sleeves which it helped to introduce. But there is no gainsaying that the mandarin sleeve is certainly to be curtailed with the advance of colder weather, for the winter wrap has necessarily less roomy sleeves than that of summer. That sleeves are shrinking is shown in those used with the new draped bodices, which cling more closely to the figure than did the ordinary jumper waist. These draped bodices follow surplised lines front and back, but blouse slightly over the girdle in front, unless the figure be rather plump, when no extra fullness is permitted.

The Woman Warned.

There is the woman who rates her husband's talk as so much superficiality. He perhaps has warned her that her friendship with a rather gay neighbor is injudicious.

She turns up her nose at this bit of information, but after a while she sees that she is not associating as much as formerly with the aforesaid gay neighbor. The truth of the matter is that some time previously this same wife of his might have been seen furiously mounting a stoop in a certain part of the city and there ringing a doorbell, meanwhile glancing up and down the street like a hunted hare; going in, she paid out a good dollar and received much gabbled advice from a woman with blinking eyes, amongst the rest a warning to avoid a light woman who lives not far from her. For what is a mere husband's advice compared to that of a fortune teller's?

PRETTY FOR AFTERNOON.

With straps of tucked taffeta. Made with jumper effect. Suitable for afternoon wear.

Light Colored Cloth Costumes. Mauve, white and tan tailor makes are coming more and more into vogue with young women who have not carriages and automobiles at their call, for a light colored cloth costume may be made to look quite as elaborate as gowns and wraps of silk and velvet, especially for town wear. These light colored tailor-mades are also greatly liked for the autumn race meets, horse shows and other occasions when exceedingly elaborate costumes would be too conspicuous.

Flower-Decorated Pews.

It is not enough now that altar and chancel should be lavishly decorated with flowers and foliage. A fashion is coming in for decorating the church pews with flowers on the occasion of a wedding. Big bunches of lilies or any desired flower with long stalks are fastened on the aisle side of each pew, and these upstanding floral sheaves are joined to one another by a festoon of smilax or other trailing scenery. As the bride walks up to the altar she passes through a charming floral arbor.

A SUGGESTION OF QUESTIONS.

Advice and Suggestions Contributed by Madame Merri.

In introducing a young professional man should the ladies be presented to him or vice versa? Does the age of the ladies make any difference in the above question. Is it proper for a young lady to ask a young man into the house after seeing her home at night, if they are but slightly acquainted? Is it necessary to ask him to call? JACK AND JILL.

A man is always presented to a woman and the age of the woman makes no difference. If the hour is late it is not customary to ask an escort to the house no matter how well acquainted. It is not necessary to ask a man to call but it is perfectly proper to say an evening that you will be at home.

Age for Kindergarten.

Will Madame Merri kindly state how old a child must be to be sent to kindergarten and how long they remain? YOUNG MOTHER.

From three to six is the age limit but some kindergartens have added a primary department which enables them to remain after six years of age.

Afternoon for Elderly Ladies.

Dear Madame Merri—I wish to entertain about 40 middle-aged ladies. What shall I do and what shall I serve? MYRTLE.

Well, make the affair informal, and in consequence most enjoyable. I should ask each guest to bring a bit of needlework and a picture of herself taken at least 25 years ago. These pictures when circulated will promote conversation, and to the person guessing the most a little souvenir may be awarded. Then I should have a programme of songs and instrumental pieces, such as "Flow Gently, Sweet Afton," "Maiden's Prayer," "Annie Laurie," "Blue Bells of Scotland," etc.

About the middle of the afternoon pass grape juice punch made by flavoring grape juice with lemon, making very sweet and freezing. Just before serving place a spoonful of whipped cream on top of each glass.

In the dining room have the table lighted with candles and a lady to preside at the tea urn and coffee urns. Pass dainty chicken sandwiches, olives, nuts, peppermint and small cakes and wafers. This is a great sufficiency for an afternoon party.

To Celebrate a Birthday.

A correspondent asks for suggestions for a birthday celebration for about eighteen guests who do not dance or play cards. Also what to have for refreshments.

Ask your friends to come in a costume representing some one whose birthday occurs in that month, or to wear something indicative of their own birth month. For January the stone is a garnet; the special days would be "New Year's" and "Twelfth Night." There will be no dullness at this party.

For refreshments have a big birthday cake with candles; a good way to arrange the candles is to put the cake on a block of wood and stick the candle holders in it so as not to mar the frosting. Then for something different in refreshments I would have escalloped chicken or sweetbreads, minced ham and olive sandwiches, salted pistachio nuts, molasses kisses and macaroon ice cream. Grape juice and coffee to drink, with doughnuts for the men. I never knew a creature of the masculine persuasion who did not audibly express his pleasure at the sight of "fried holes," as a youngster of my acquaintance calls them. To add zest to the occasion, you might offer prizes for the costume or character hardest to guess.

It is very little more trouble to get up a costume party than to go in regulation evening dress, and the pleasure is infinitely more, from the fact that every one is equally interested.

Dear Madame Merri:—We have moved from our home to a new location. Kindly tell me, ought I to send card with new address to all my old neighbors and friends? Do I enclose my husband's? How shall I address the envelopes? MRS. T. R. S.

Use your visiting card on which the new address is engraved. Enclose in an envelope to fit exactly and mail to all whom you wish to retain on your calling list. Do not enclose your husband's card. MADAME MERRI.

Woman M. P.'s Mishap.

One of the women members of the Finnish diet met with a laughable mishap recently while attending the sittings of a local committee. Bored by the proceedings she bestowed her chair and rocked to and fro with her feet clear off the ground. Suddenly she overbalanced and fell above the chair, with which she battled for some moments as she lay on the floor. The equality of the sexes is coming to be looked upon so much as a matter of course that the male members of the committee, not concealing their appreciation of the humor of the situation, are reported to have been ungrateful enough to refrain from expressing regret at the mishap.—London Mail.

Horns on Horse's Skull.

A recently acquired abnormality of the British museum is the skull of an English horse showing a pair of rudimentary horns on the forehead. Older specimens are a portion of a similar skull with the horns and models of the foreheads of two thoroughbreds having horns. The skin extends uniformly over the horns, with no sign of thickening or hardening. Just what these hornlike growths signify is perplexing to naturalists, as none of the ancestral horses or immediately related species were horned animals, and if there is no hereditary influence it is remarkable that so many freak appendages should appear in the same place.

Affection Between Senators.

There was sincere affection between the late Alabama senators, Morgan and Pettus. It is said that Pettus adored Morgan. He looked up to him as few men look up to other men. When Morgan passed away the fading old veteran lost all interest in life. These things sound unbelievable, perhaps, to a skeptical modern time, but Morgan and Pettus did not belong to a modern time. They were relics of an older age. They passed away almost together. The death of one preceded and the Alabama men say, brought about the death of the other. Together they lie in Selma, where, side by side, they lived for 40 years.

THE ANTS' EGG TRADE.

Russian Gatherer Has Insects Help Him in Collecting.

Ants' eggs come in the main from Russia. They are the best food obtainable for gold fish, and canaries and other cage birds thrive on them wonderfully. They cost about 50 cents a pint. In the forests of southern Russia ant nests abound. The Russian egg hunter does not do his own collecting there—he makes the poor ants do it for him. Selecting a hot, sunny day, the man first erects little piles of twigs, a dozen or more of them, near the thickest colonies, and then he kicks open all the nests in the neighborhood. The ants know that their eggs, thus exposed to the sun would be made sterile in a few hours, and they take them up and hurry to place them under the nearest shelter. The nearest shelter is, of course, the little pile of twigs, and under each of these there are soon heaped the eggs from a hundred nests. The egg hunter, after a smoke and a nap, has nothing to do but gather up his spoil and dump it in his sack. He ships the eggs in hundred-weight bags, all over the world.
